

Recycled fibers from Disadvantaged Minority Communities (Tread-First Mile)

- First Mile facilitated remote areas and disadvantaged minority groups in Haiti, Honduras, and Taiwan to build up their extensive PET bottle recycling systems.
- Discarded PET bottles are collected, cleaned, extruded into fine strands, made into spun yarns, and lastly made into consumer products.
- Through the extensive system, employment opportunities and income sources were created for the disadvantaged minority groups. First Mile fulfills the goals of environmental protection and social responsibility.
